Dear Mr. Green:

I have received your letter dated November 4 regarding professional engineers providing home inspection services without a license. Your analysis of the relevant statutes is the same as ours; a PE can perform engineering inspections without a home inspector license but cannot offer or provide actual "home inspections" without such license.

I have provided this information to our licensees in the past but will do so again in our next quarterly newsletter. If you have actual names, I would be glad to correspond with them individually to see that such practice ends.

Sincerely,

B. David Cox
